

Oxidation, not stability, decides the surface: a cheap thermodynamic screen ranks high-entropy carbides by rocket-throat recession

